Project Steno Welcomes MacCormac College as Partner Program

Project Steno has added another significant court reporting program to its roster of partner programs. MacCormac College, located in downtown Chicago, IL, is the 21st court reporting and captioning program to join Project Steno in its efforts to raise awareness of the profession. The school holds the distinction of having established the first court reporting program in the United States in 1912. The program is overseen by Selana Scott, J.D., Court Reporting Program Director.

Project Steno promotes the stenographic court reporting/captioning profession through social media and community outreach, with the goal of building a robust pipeline of students into school and graduating them in two years.

“Project Steno’s strong track record of introducing this wonderful profession to newcomers results in a win-win situation with this partnership,” says Scott. “MacCormac College is committed to thoroughly preparing court reporting students to successfully meet the rigors and challenges of a satisfying and fruitful court reporting career. We are excited about the continued increased momentum for this great profession that will result from our partnership with Project Steno.”

Jim DeCrescenzo, Project Steno’s president, explains: “Our goal is straightforward. We want to repopulate the dwindling ranks of stenographic reporters and captioners in our field. To do that, we need to get motivated students into school and graduate them in two years.”

Educational programs which achieve partner program status must have performance metrics in place to graduate students 24 months after enrollment. To achieve that goal, a Partner Program must:

- Provide a curriculum designed to graduate students in two years;
- Incorporate a speed-building and online practice regimen that makes use of an online learning platform such as Realtime Coach; and
- Confirm student progress to Project Steno on a regular basis to assure that students are achieving performance milestones.

Project Steno offers its Merit Awards Program to students who attend a Partner Program, register with Project Steno, respond timely to requests for data, and reach certain speed benchmarks. The 140-in-1 merit award of $1,000 is given to stenographic students who attain 140 words per minute in one year. The 225-in-2 merit award gives $1,000 to stenographic students who attain 225 wpm in two years.

About Project Steno

Founded in 2017, Project Steno is an independent, non-affiliated organization that relies entirely on financial support from the court reporting community. Its goals are to:

- Promote the stenographic reporting profession and recruit promising students;
- Partner with stenographic reporting schools and programs to graduate students in two years;
- Create incentives for students to reach speed milestones through the Merit Awards Program;
- Track performance of students who graduate in two years through data collection and analysis.

Project Steno holds 501(c)3 status as a charitable organization. It operates entirely on a not-for-profit basis. In January 2018 Project Steno launched its program of tuition assistance and placed its first students in court reporting school. With the manifest enthusiasm of court reporters everywhere, Project Steno will continue to raise funds to promote widespread awareness of our unique profession and create a robust pipeline of students into court reporting schools and graduates into the field.
